

The Raw You: A Contemplation of the Soul

Do you seek happiness but are unsure where to find it? Do you wonder if you have a unique purpose? Do you feel like you once understood what that purpose was, when you were very young, before you were taught differently? If you search deep within yourself, you will find the missing key in order to unlock your true self, your soul. It is a beautiful discovery. Become yourself, your Real Self. Only when you discover what lies within the deepest, rawest part of you, your soul, you realize you possess the key to unlock that cage and become truly happy. If you're happy, you want others to be happy. If you look in your soul and find your true self, then you can get to know yourself and become happy with yourself. You'll understand what true passion is. You'll learn how to have passion in all areas of your life, because it's just exciting to become you, and to develop who you are in the physical world. We are all born with an instinct to survive and to become all we can be. We are born with a deep knowing and understanding of who we are and where we want to go. As we grow, our vision of ourselves can become clouded. This book is about knowing ourselves, our true self, who we are at our core. It is who we are before we are taught to be different, and who we are at the root of ourselves. Throughout life those instincts, that internal self, nature, God, the universe becomes a mystery, something beyond our understanding. When you learn to listen to those instincts, those hunches; when you start to communicate with your internal self, with God, the universe, you will find your path and you will be happy. Your instincts will also protect you. That is what discovering The Raw You is. It is getting back to who you really are, your original self. And by doing this, you will not only find a deep peace and happiness within yourself, but also with the world around you.
