

Look At Any Man

A drama about a sophisticated Manhattan literary couple: the wife writes confessional memoirs of celebrities who have fallen upon hard times; the husband supervises the advertising, publicity, and more practical aspects of her work. The play begins with the arrival of a one-time black child movie star and his wife who will collaborate on writing his story. The action covers eighteen months, the writing, publication and publicity of the book and the unexpected emotional effects upon both couples of the intimacy of the project. The play is an exploration of the manipulation of unfortunates by those who use them to achieve success.
